Get to know your school-based therapist

Jill Rowland, MA, LPC

Meet Child and Adolescent Behavioral Health's Jill Rowland, who is the school-based therapist at GlenOak High School.

Jill, who graduated from Jackson High School, went on to earn her bachelor's degree in elementary education from Capital University and her master's degree in school and clinical counseling from Central Michigan University.

Jill said the best part of her job is, "helping people through challenging times and empowering them to make positive changes in their lives. Being a teenager in today's world can be very challenging and so it is a privilege to be in a position to help support them in making good decisions to benefit them now and in their future."

Hobbies: spending time with friends and family, boating and running.

Favorite book: To Kill a Mockingbird

Favorite movies: any Christmas movie!

Child and Adolescent Behavioral Health's (C&A's) school-based consultation services include behavioral health screening and referral, crisis intervention, student social/emotional skill development and behavioral health and wellness education, community linkage and referrals, parent/guardian engagement/education, CARE team meetings and collaboration with school staff. When indicated, students may receive formal diagnostic and treatment services, provided at the school, by the school-based therapist.

- Students are referred to counseling by school staff and CARE teams to screen for mental health or substance issues
  - Parents are asked to be engaged in the process
  - C&A will assist with linking families to community resources as needed.
  - C&A's clinical staff collaborates closely with school staff to enhance a supportive social/emotional school environment
