Maggie M. Bockoven, MA, LPCC

Meet Child and Adolescent Behavioral Health's Maggie M. Bockoven who is the school-based therapist at Glenwood Intermediate School.

Maggie, who graduated from Canton Central Catholic High School, went on to earn her bachelor's degree in psychology with an emphasis on clinical counseling and her master's degree in mental health at Walsh University.

Maggie said, the best part of her job is, "seeing a client's face light up with that moment of success or that "thank you" I receive from helping a client!"

Hobbies: art activities, spending time with my family and dogs, hiking and traveling

Favorite book: I like to read suspenseful books

Favorite movies: I love to watch action packed movies!

Child and Adolescent Behavioral Health's (C&A's) school-based consultation services include behavioral health screening and referral, crisis intervention, student social/emotional skill development and behavioral health and wellness education, community linkage and referrals, parent/guardian engagement/education, CARE team meetings and collaboration with school staff. When indicated, students may receive formal diagnostic and treatment services, provided at the school, by the school-based therapist.

- Students are referred to counseling by school staff and CARE teams to screen for mental health or substance issues
- Parents are asked to be engaged in the process
- C&A will assist with linking families to community resources as needed.
- C&A's clinical staff collaborates closely with school staff to enhance a supportive social/emotional school environment
