

Get to know your school-based therapist

Emily A. Johnson, MSW, LSW, CDCA II

Meet Child and Adolescent Behavioral Health's Emily A. Johnson, who is the school-based therapist at Alliance Early Learning Center and Alliance Middle School.

Emily, who graduated from Mahoning Unlimited Classroom, went on to earn her associates of applied science in human services and bachelor's degree in human development and family studies from Kent State University - Salem. She earned her master's degree in social work at Virginia Commonwealth University.

Emily said, the best part of the job is, "being a role model for children and being their shimmering light of hope."

Hobbies: listening to music, going to concerts, cosplay, watching Netflix, and playing with my dog

Favorite book: The Fault In Our Stars by John Greene

Favorite television shows: All The Bright Places

Child and Adolescent Behavioral Health's (C&A's) school-based consultation services include behavioral health screening and referral, crisis intervention, student social/emotional skill development and behavioral health and wellness education, community linkage and referrals, parent/guardian engagement/education, CARE team meetings and collaboration with school staff. When indicated, students may receive formal diagnostic and treatment services, provided at the school, by the school-based therapist.

- Students are referred to counseling by school staff and CARE teams to screen for mental health or substance issues
- Parents are asked to be engaged in the process
- C&A will assist with linking families to community resources as needed.
- C&A's clinical staff collaborates closely with school staff to enhance a supportive social/emotional school environment
